Students raise money for Afghani children

Thursday December 31 2009

The Grade 3-8 class at King's College School received a certificate of thanks from Jennifer Goodhand, program co-ordinator for Dare Arts (seen far right), a Canadian charity based in Caledon which helps children at risk around the world. The King's College students created original cards to raise money for children in Afghanistan and enjoyed knowing they were taking positive action to make a difference in the world.
